CAPT. JEFFREY V. BROCK

CMDR. PAUL D. TAYLOR
... mention in dispatches

High praise was given in official citations accompanying today's awards to naval men.

Capt. Jeffrey V. Brock, winner of D.S.O., was cited as having "acted most courageously and with much initiative in leading five destroyers up the Chinnampo approaches at night and in bad weather to assist army withdrawal." Citation stated successful withdrawal of large numbers of troops from that port was due to Brock's "vigorous leadership."

Cmdr. R. P. Welland, winner of bar for D.S.C., "commanded H.M.C.S. Athabaskan with dash and skill since early stage of war. He carried out long periods of patrol and harassed the enemy by bombardments of batteries, landing R.O.C. marines and dealing with enemy mine-laying. Throughout the war Cmdr. Welland has shown a very fine ability to lead and has displayed much courage and initiative."

Lieut. Andrew Collier, winner of D.S.C., was credited with "great skill, courage and initiative in operations which contributed directly to successful evacuation of military and civilian personnel from Chinnampo."

Chief Petty Officer Douglas J. Pearson, awarded British Empire Medal, was cited for "high degree of leadership, devotion to duty, and loyalty," and for carrying out duties "cheerfully and in manner which inspired confidence and co-operation of all his subordinates."

Cmdr. Paul D. Taylor, mentioned in dispatches, was commended for his "level-headedness and patience in long patrols." The citation said his leadership and devotion to duty contributed to effective naval blockade.

U.S. Given Confidence Vote In U.N.

Red Subversive Charges Rejected

PARIS, Dec. 21 (AP).—The United Nations political committee gave the United States a vote of confidence today by rejecting Russian charges that the U.S. was supporting anti-Kremlin plotters on Soviet soil.

The vote was 39 against the Russian resolution, five for it and 11 abstentions.

A U.S. spokesman said the vote backing up U.S. denials of the charges would have been even larger except that several pro-American delegations had left Paris for the Christmas holidays.

PARIS, Dec. 21 (CP).—R. M. Macdonell, Canadian delegate to the United Nations political committee, today told Andrei Vishinsky, Russian foreign minister, people who live in glass houses should not throw stones.

Vishinsky has accused the United States of promoting subversive activity in iron curtain countries. He introduced a resolution Tuesday for a U.N. call to the United States to repeal its mutual security act which, among other things, provides aid for refugees from Communist dominated countries.

Macdonell said Canada knew all about subversive activities and recalled the Royal Commission investigation in 1946 which uncovered a Communist-inspired spy ring in Ottawa. The ring was Moscow-directed, he said.

"Does anyone seriously think that there has been any basic change in this practice in the past few years?" Macdonell asked.

He said Russian charges of American espionage were "too much for my delegation's sense of proportion."

Alexanders Adopt Young Daughter

OTTAWA, Dec. 21 (CP).—The Governor-General and Viscountess Alexander have adopted a young daughter, it became known today. Fair-haired Susan, now 3½ years old, was adopted three years ago in England, but the new addition to the vice-regal family remained a well-kept secret until today.

Aides at Government House said they know little about the circumstances of the adoption, except that the blue-eyed youngster became a member of the Governor-General's family on a school at Harrow, England, and years ago.

4 AMERICANS TO BE TRIED

BUDAPEST, Hungary.—Dec. 21 (AP).—The four-man crew of an American C-47 forced down in Hungary by Soviet fighters on Nov. 19 will be tried here by a Hungarian court of justice.

Racial Parity By-Law Sought In Vancouver

VANCOUVER, Dec. 21 (CP).—A special committee of the city council has given tentative approval to a proposed by-law to prohibit racial discrimination in business establishments here.

The committee agreed to ask the city's legal staff to see if the city has power to pass such a by-law, and if not, to recommend that such power be obtained.

The draft by-law, submitted by joint A.F.L.-C.C.L. committee to combat racial discrimination, would make it an offense for anyone to refuse goods or services because of race, creed or color. Punishment would include fines of from $25 to $100, and cancellation of city license.

Allies Demand Record Of 1,000 Missing Troops

MUNSAN, Korea, Dec. 21 (AP).—The Allies today demanded the Reds account for more than 1,000 American and other missing United Nations soldiers and "an unbelievable number" of South Koreans not listed as prisoners of war.

The demand was made in a stiffly worded note. It was handed to a Red liaison officer in Panmunjom shortly after Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway appealed to Communist chiefs to open the gates of North Korean prison camps to the international Red Cross.

These developments came as the Allies offered to give up all islands off the North Korean coast in a move to hasten agreement on an armistice.

CHARGE DISCREPANCIES

The Allied note demanded a complete explanation of "wide discrepancies" between the number of Allied prisoners listed by the Communists and the number the Allies assert the Reds may hold.

The note did not reject the Red list of 11,539 prisoners.

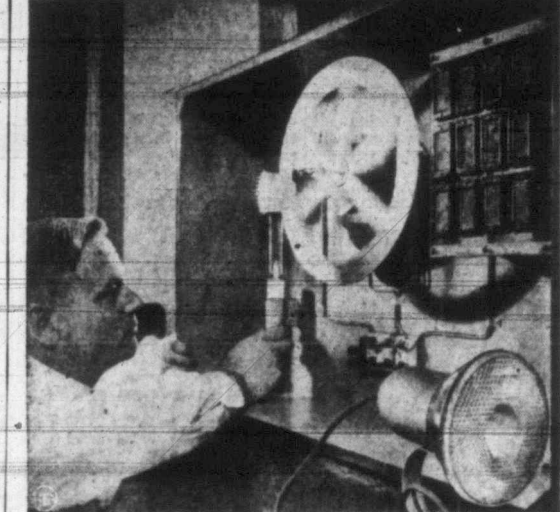

Stalin's 72nd Birthday Little Fanfare Marks

By EDDY GILMORE

MOSCOW, Dec. 21 (AP).—Joseph Vissarionovich Djugashvili—better known as Generalissimo Joseph Stalin, Prime Minister of the Soviet Union—became 72 years old today.

Little fanfare marked the day. But the press observed it with announcements of the award of Stalin prizes for "strengthening peace among the peoples."

The six winners announced are Mrs. Monica Pelton, howsoever British novelist; Anna Seghers, a German novelist; Pietro Nenni, leader of the pro-Communist faction of the Italian Socialist Party; George Amadu, a Brazilian author; Kuo Mo-Jo, president of the Chinese Academy of Sciences,

Sun Motor Runs By Candle

Sunlight, lamp light or the mere flicker of a small candle will set the balsa wood wheel on the shaft of this "sun motor" to spinning. General Motors engineers in Detroit developed the device, which is being shown in G.M.'s "Preview of Progress" science shows, to illustrate an important principle—that sunlight is power, and that it holds vast potential as a power source. G.M. engineers concede their "sun motor" is an extremely low-efficiency power producer, and that it holds no clues as to how to harness the sun's energy.

U.K. STUDIES WAR IN CHINA

LONDON, Dec. 21 (Reuters).—The British government is urgently examining a United States proposal for possible extension of the war into Chinese territory should a Korean truce be agreed and then violated by the Communists, it was learned today.

Living Cost In U.S. Hits Record Peak

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21 (CP).—The cost of living in the United States rose to another new high during November, chiefly as the result of higher prices for fresh fruits and vegetables and miscellaneous goods and services.

The cost-of-living index rose .5 per cent to the new peak of 188.6 per cent of the 1935-39 base level. As a result, approximately 1,250,000 railroad workers will get a pay boost of four cents an hour. Their wage scales are tied to the rise and fall of the index.

Treatment For Alcoholics Is New Proposal

VANCOUVER, Dec. 21 (CP).—Civic officials will ask the provincial government to establish a treatment farm for confirmed alcoholics.

Alderman Ann Sprott and social services administrator J. I. Chambers will ask Attorney General Wismer and Health Minister Turnbull to join with the city in a rehabilitation plan.

A four-point program proposed by Chambers was endorsed Thursday by a special civic committee.

"Social assistance cheques paid out to alcoholic cases, most of whom inhabit the skidroad area, are used almost immediately to buy liquor," Chambers said.

Warmer Air Welcomed In Victoria

Vancouverites Sink In New Snow Falls

While Vancouver's traffic snarled and pedestrians wallowed in five new inches of overnight snow Victoria Friday snugly nestled in warm air oozing in from the tropics. The new air was overcoming the cold air mass that has been plaguing "Canada's most beautiful city" for the past few days.

According to the weatherman, Victoria is now in the warm air belt. Temperatures for the next 24 hours will range between 37 and 42 degrees. Clouds and rain showers will continue.

At Duncan, however, both snow and rain were threatening. All centres from there on north reported falls of four and five inches and "still snowing."

The snow is reported wet and heavy. Temperatures are at freezing point.

Public works crews between Victoria and Port Alberni have been at work since Friday morning to clear the roads.

Side roads are reported difficult but passable. In Victoria R.C.M.P. warn motorists to be on the alert for ice patches on the higher levels of the Malahat.

In Vancouver the weatherman reported signs of warmer weather. However, city police reported 40 major traffic accidents, and seven persons injured late Thursday and today.

A North Star aircraft had trouble landing at the airport and a west-bound freight train was reported derailed.

Blinding snow and low visibility gave 25 military passengers an uneasy 54 minutes over Vancouver airport early today as their R.C.A.F. pilot made five approaches before managing to land the North Star aircraft.

Only one commercial flight landed at the airport after midnight.

News from other B.C. points: Rail services are running as much as eight hours late.

In traffic snarled Vancouver public transportation was running as much as 30 minutes late.

Heavy snow in the Fraser Valley has forced the cancellation of some bus routes.

Cloverdale, B.C., reported eight inches over night. Snow caused closure of some Chilliwack schools.

Dextraze Back From Korea

VANCOUVER, Dec. 21 (CP).—Two days away from snow-banked Korean trenches, Lt. Col. Jacques Dextraze was flying home to Montreal today where he will spend Christmas.

He landed here Thursday night from Tokyo aboard a Korean airlift plane along with 29 other Canadian servicemen.

"Things are pretty quiet on the front now," he told interviewers at the airport. "We never stopped fighting on our front, but nobody likes to get killed when the war's over."

He commanded the Royal 22nd Regiment in Korea, and directed an historic four-day stand of the Van Doos who beat off Chinese Reds from two rain-swept hills.

"Fighting like that isn't as bad as it sounds," said the colonel. "In the excitement of it all you forget about everything but staying alive."

He directed the four-day battle by microphone from a front-line trench.

Tory Non-Confidence Motion Defeated In Commons 82-22

OTTAWA, Dec. 21 (CP).—The home-for-Christmas drive of the Commons gathered steam today as the chamber quickly disposed of a Progressive Conservative move to kill the government's anti-price-fixing legislation.

It received a second non-confidence motion relating to the legislation from M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, but he told the chamber that he would not push it to a recorded, time-consuming vote.

In a conciliatory mood after Thursday's angry debates, the chamber met this morning to hear Prime Minister St. Laurent say he hopes it won't be necessary to apply closure to the lingering debate on resale price sary for him to carry out his maintenance legislation.

The Progressive Conservatives, fighting the bill on the ground it will harm small business, then put up only two speakers—Gordon Churchill (Winnipeg South Centre) and J. A. Charlton (Brant Westworth)—before allowing their motion to shelve the legislation to go to a vote.

The House, striving to complete its work by tonight or possibly Saturday, defeated the Progressive Conservative motion by a count of 82 to 22. It was introduced four days ago by E. D. Fulton (PC Kamloops).

Liberal, C.C.F. and Social Credit members voted against it.

Mr. Coldwell then moved a motion that the bill be shelved and consideration be given to the regulation of price maintenance by a public board.

Mr. Coldwell suggested that at the next session the government consider legislation to outlaw "loss leaders"—the practice of selling goods below cost to attract trade and eliminate competition—to avert price wars.

Prime Minister St. Laurent replied that the government considers the criminal code gives the independent retailer protection. However, it was the government's intention to watch developments and take any action necessary to protect the retailer.

In the opening stages, Mr. St. Laurent expressed hope the House will make enough progress today that it won't be necessary for him to invoke closure, which he said Thursday he would apply effective Dec. 27.

ON THE TIMES

By ART STOTT

"I'm going to my dentist tomorrow," my friend told me. "It's going to hurt and it's going to cost me dough. When he's finished with me, my teeth still won't be as good as those of the primitives who don't know enough to eat our improved foods and who don't have dental decay."

"It seems a little pathetic, the way I'm trying to hang on to my own teeth. They won't be with me always and every year I'll be suffering pain and paying out money just to prolong our association. I can't win, but I can put off the day when I'll have to buy a set of store teeth and quit eating raspberry jam."

"It's a little like fighting inflation and high living costs. That's painful, too. Only by submitting to some pain, it may be possible to avoid the greater pain of a more serious condition."

"My teeth don't hurt me now—not unless I drink ice water or try to chew a tough piece of meat up in the northeast corner of my mouth. But if I don't go to the dentist and have my gums jabbed around and that jack-hammer work-ing in my molars, they'll just get worse and worse until toothache drives me nuts."

The Lesser Suffering

"That's the way this campaign against high costs is supposed to work, too. You put up with some suffering, to stop the decay that's eating away your wages, or you try to ignore it and finally wind up in agony."

"I'll be thinking of that while I'm catching up on the slick magazines in the waiting room. I'll have lots of time to get philosophical then, but I won't have much opportunity for philosophy when my dentist lets loose his hornet in my mouth."

"I'll be thinking, too, about the day when the man fits me for artificial dentures. That's going to recall the advice of my other friends. Hang onto your teeth, they tell you. Hang onto them. And they talk in terms of discomfort."

"Still, if I live long enough, there's bound to come a time when I wake in the morning and see myself grinning back at me from the uppers and lowers in the drinking glass on the night table."

"It isn't too comforting a thought. And there are some additional hazards attached to it now. In New York last Sunday a guy sat on his mother-in-law's chest and yanked out her porcelain just to render her speechless. He sorta took the bite out of the old girl's remarks."

"When he came up before the magistrate for that little trick, the magistrate took a detached view of proceedings and suggested it would be a good thing if a lot of people did a lot less talking."

Golden Silence

"When I've gone through the slick magazines in the waiting room, I'm going to think of that, too. Maybe it would be a good thing if I had false teeth trouble and couldn't talk. A man I know built up quite a reputation for wisdom simply by keeping his mouth shut. People thought he was the strong, silent type and he didn't discourage them."

"The same thing could happen to me. Only if I quit talking, folks'd probably just think I was sick. Changes are, when false teeth come my way, I'll just keep clicking away, like a train over track joints."

"Come to think of it, that's what a lot of so-called conversation is nowadays—the clackety-clack of mental false teeth chewing over the soft, prepared food of their offerers. Their owners lost their own teeth because of the same diet. There was no real chewing to it."

"I'm going to try and hang onto my own, even if it hurts and costs me money tomorrow, but it probably won't be for long. I'll be gumming away soon enough."

"I find myself doing that when I should be thinking now."

Suspected Jewel Thieves Arrested

VANCOUVER, Dec. 21 (CP)—Two suspected jewel thieves were captured Thursday while taking a shower 115 miles from the scene of the crime, R.C.M.P. reported.

They were held for investigation in connection with the $1,000 looting of a jewelry store early Thursday at Port Coquitlam, 18 miles east of Vancouver. The men were captured at North Bend, when an R.C.M.P. constable spotted them leaping off a freight train. When they went to wash in the shower room of the C.P.R. roundhouse, the officer waited until they had finished, then arrested them.

RETRIEVER DOG TOOK TO WATER FOR DUCK; BROUGHT BACK FISH

CALDWELL, Idaho, Dec. 21 (AP)—Gene Odle says this happened the last day of the duck-hunting season.

Odle shot a teal duck while hunting along the Boise River near here. He sent his dog, a spaniel, into the water to retrieve the duck. Back came the animal in record time.

But at Odle's feet the dog laid, not a duck, but a flopping 27-inch fish.

3 AMERICANS GET ASYLUM

BERLIN, Dec. 21 (UPI)—The Russians claim three American soldier fugitives from a United States military court have requested and been granted political asylum in Communist East Germany.

The U.S. high commission disclosed Thursday night it had sent two notes to the Soviet control commission protesting the illegal detention of the three G.I.'s and demanding their return.

S. A. Dengin, Berlin chief of the Soviet commission, replied in a letter that the soldiers requested and were granted protection by the East German state after they fled the U.S. court on Dec. 2.

Village To Ditch Elk Falls Company New Subdivision

CAMPBELL RIVER—Board of Village Commissioners agreed to a request of the Elk Falls Company to ditch a new subdivision opened by the company for staff houses.

The board also agreed to supply water for the new development if the company pays for the pipe line, and permits it to become the property of the village when the area is incorporated.

Drainage of individual lots will be the responsibility of the owners.

$1,000,000 Fire

WENATCHEE, Wash., Dec. 21 (AP).—An unexplained fire roared out of control for six hours tonight in an apple warehouse, destroying almost 100,000 boxes of fruit and causing damage estimated at nearly $1,000,000. The blaze started in some empty boxes in the J. M. Wade Fruit Co. warehouse in downtown Wenatchee. Firemen were hampered by below-freezing weather, which crusted hoses with ice and hampered movement of vehicles and men.

Ship Victims' Fate Unknown

No Trace Of 11 Persons Missing After Erria Abandoned; Vessel Complete Loss

ASTORIA, Ore., Dec. 21 (AP)—The fate of 11 persons, including five Canadians, missing in a fire which swept a ship anchored in the mouth of the Columbia River, still was not determined today.

One hundred and three others, including 23 passengers and 80 crew members, were rescued by the United States Coast Guard shortly after flames whipped through the midsection of the Danish vessel Erria early Thursday.

Crew members said the fire started from sparks from a shorted electric cable. A few minutes later a hold was on fire.

Survivors said crew members ran from cabin to cabin pounding on doors and ordering passengers to lifeboat stations.

Four of the eight lifeboats were lowered, the first with women and children and the others with men. Three boats were burned and one was not launched.

The Coast Guard station, only a mile away, rushed tugs to the scene to pick up the lifeboats.

NO PANIC
One survivor, E. L. Blythe of Portland, said, "There was no panic, but most of the passengers left their luggage behind. Some of them were in night clothing and overcoats."

The 462-foot ship, bound for Liverpool via New York, was towed out of the channel late Thursday. It was listing at a 25-degree angle. Coast Guard officials who boarded the fantail briefly Thursday said there was not sign of life in the smoking red-hot midship section.

The missing were believed trapped there or drowned.

John Ray, 11-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugo Ray of Vancouver, said he and a number of others were trapped in the ship's lounge by the flames.

The adults shoved him through a porthole but were unable to climb through themselves. He said he saw two of the men's hair catch fire.

The boy was one of two persons injured. He suffered a heel injury. A crew member was knocked unconscious in a fall. Both were released from the hospital after treatment.

Condensed from CP, AP, and UP Dispatches

HELPED—Louis Padilla Nervo of Mexico, president of the United Nations sixth general assembly, said today the U.N.'s 45-day session in Paris has helped the cause of peace.

The Assembly recesses tonight until Jan. 2 for a Christmas and New Year's holiday.

In a statement, Padilla said Assembly debates have "reflected the general desire for action to end, or at least to soften the cold war. You find the desire for real action, for conciliation and a weariness with the pattern of combative argument."

"It has not achieved realization but it is strong and pervades the entire atmosphere. That is the big story of this Assembly."

MEET—In Washington President Truman met today with Dr. Raymond B. Allen, new head of the psychological strategy board.

Allen, who resigned recently as president of the University of Washington, was accompanied by Gordon R. Gray who leaves the board chairmanship to resume his duties as president of the University of North Carolina.

Allen said he promised the President to retain the board position at least until next September when he is scheduled to become chancellor of the University of California, at Los Angeles.

LOSS—In Norfolk, Mass., two Oxford University students, who lost their first formally judged debate out of 50 during their American tour to a couple of fast-talking American convicts, were guaranteed a warm welcome today if they ever return to the Massachusetts State Prison colony.

Dick Taverne and William Rees-Mogg, both 23-year-old students at Oxford's Balliol College, won the hearts of 500 prisoners though they lost the debate to two "students" at the colony, known only as "Bill," 37, and "Murdo," 29.

When they left State Correction Commissioner Maxwell B. Grossman awarded them a certificate of "discharge" that said either of the two debaters would be welcome back any time but "more so if he will speak for Norfolk."

ACRIMONIOUS—In New York the defense's promise to inject sex, champagne, and cocaine into the forgery-laden trial of actress Tallulah Bankhead's maid dissolved today in an acrimonious dispute between defense attorney Fred G. Moritt and General Sessions Judge Harold Stevens.

Moritt persisted so vehemently in his attempts to make a statement in open court that Stevens directed two uniformed bailiffs to seat the attorney forcibly.

The judge then recessed the trial for lunch and instructed Moritt to be ready to proceed at the start of the afternoon session with the questioning of the defendant, Mrs. Evelyn Ramsay Cronin, 59.

W. Powers Kill Italy's Peace Pact

Treaty Set Limit On Power To War

ROME, Dec. 21 (UP).—Italy, with the blessing of the western powers, proclaimed null and void today the provisions of its World War II peace treaty limiting its armed forces and forbidding it to produce atomic weapons.

Eight nations—the United States, Great Britain, France, Belgium, the Netherlands, Greece, Nationalist China and New Zealand—first announced their "full acceptance" of Italy's request for revision of the treaty.

The government followed with a formal declaration which:

- 1—Denounced the clauses in the 1947 peace treaty limiting the size of its armed forces and banning the production of atomic weapons.
- 2—Denounced the provision calling for neutralization of Italy's frontiers.
- 3—Erased the section of the treaty preamble which brands Italy as an Axis aggressor.

Russia and its satellites are expected to protest bitterly against the action of Italy and the western powers. But an Italian Foreign Office spokesman said:

"The revision of the peace treaty is an accomplished fact."

The treaty limited Italy's armed forces as follows:

Army, 250,000 men, including 70,000 carabinieri or federal police; navy, 25,000 men, two battleships and not more than 67,500 tons of other combat vessels, with aircraft carriers and submarines banned; air force, 25,000 men, 200 pursuit planes, 150 transport planes but no bombers.

CHRISTMAS IN FRONT LINE

May Be Dull For Canadian Troops

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer
WITH THE CANADIANS IN KOREA, Dec. 21 (CP).—Christmas for Canadians in Korea will depend on progress at Pannun-jom.

An armistice would mean an all-out Christmas, with bang-up meals, unit parties and celebrations prompted by an end to hostilities.

No armistice will mean business as usual.

For some soldiers in the front line there will be a special meal. For others in trickier positions that would be too dangerous and they will eat the same canned rations that go up to them every day.

No armistice means no Christmas for the 2nd Battalion Royal 22nd Regiment and for parts of the 2nd Battalion Royal Canadian Regiment and of the 1st Battalion Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry.

For those men not even the turkey dinner, Christmas cake and plum pudding will go up into the hills.

Men of the 2nd Regiment Royal Canadian Horse Artillery, however, will spell one another off as usual for meals and have the big meal in their battery mess tents.

The Gun Barrel

THE REQUEST OF THE NORTH ATLANTIC Treaty alliance for more Canadian support—reportedly a doubling of our present financial contribution—must force this country to revise its whole budgetary calculations during the next year.

To begin with, if we are to increase our defence program as the "three wise men" of N.A.T.O. suggest, the whole argument about the government's revenue surplus becomes irrelevant, simply because there will soon be no surplus left to argue about. Anyone could have foreseen this—anyone but an opposition party bent on discrediting the government and winning votes from hard-pressed taxpayers by proposing to reduce their taxes.

Considering the increased non-defence costs of current government to which we are now committed, the mounting costs of defence and now the demand for still larger contributions to N.A.T.O. it would seem that the government will shortly need all the revenues it can secure from current tax rates. And if the public continues to demand still larger government services (while demanding lower taxes) we could shortly find ourselves with a deficit instead of a surplus.

But much more is involved in the new plans of N.A.T.O. than figures in a national budget. What we have to consider is whether we are really pulling our full weight in the partnership of the free world which alone can protect us from results much more serious than high taxes. Is Canada doing its share?

By the measurement of manpower in the armed services it will certainly be argued by our partners at first sight, that we are not doing our share. This view is natural in those nations which are enforcing conscription, raising large armies and sending them to the ends of the earth. It must be realized, however, that Canada, with its population, cannot raise mass armies without devastating its industrial system which, properly used, can provide a much more effective contribution to joint defence.

If we are not to contribute manpower on a large scale then we are bound to make our maximum contribution otherwise and this, N.A.T.O. tells us, we are not now doing.

Contributions of this sort must be measured, for purposes of planning, in terms of money which is only the symbol of manpower, machinery and production.

It is a crude and unsatisfactory measurement. The true measurement of any nation's policies is the public attitude behind them. What is the Canadian attitude toward defence? That is the real question.

In candor it must be answered that the Canadian attitude is unsatisfactory or at least deeply confused. While many Canadians in uniform have understood the nation's danger from the start, the people as a whole obviously have not fully understood it.

This is perfectly clear from the resistance to taxes needed for defence, if defence is to be expanded; from widespread resistance to every attempt by the government to fight inflation through sound methods which must be temporarily painful; and most of all by the nation's attempt to consume more than it produces, which is the root cause of inflation.

So far the political if not the personal thinking of the nation as a whole, with the honorable exceptions already noted, has been largely confined to the proposition that it will do anything for joint defence so long as it doesn't hurt. It is ready for any hardship so long as it does not reduce the national living standard. It will make any sacrifice so long as no actual sacrifice is involved.

Now this is not a conscious reasoning but mainly a state of confusion, greatly exaggerated by irresponsible politicians, some of whom are not far from here. If the Canadian people once understood the clear facts of the nation's position they would react as always to the challenge of the times. They have no wish to be hit-hikers thumbing a ride from their partners in defence. No intention of demanding sacrifice by such nations as Britain while refusing to accept it themselves. But so far they remain confused and that confusion is expressed in the excessive demand for goods, for profits, wages, governmental services and for a still higher standard of living which the economic system cannot possibly support. If we are to do our full share in defence.

Now that our partners have reminded us of the facts and asked us to do our full share the national mind should be clarified, and perhaps some of the politicians who have deliberately confused it for political purposes will abandon their campaign of bewilderment. We are not looking at an economist's chart these days. We are looking down a gun barrel.

Myth In Vancouver

THE VANCOUVER PROVINCE HAS now joined The Sun in totally misrepresenting the present taxation agreement between the federal and provincial governments. The black-out of facts in this matter may now be considered complete in Vancouver.

The Sun said recently, in an article by Mr. Roy Brown, that by the agreement, now expiring, British Columbia had abandoned its right to collect its own income tax. As was pointed out here before, this simply is untrue. British Columbia abandoned income tax collections for a fixed term of years which will end next March 31. On April 1 it can collect its own income taxes if it wishes. There is nothing to prevent it.

Yet in a front-page news story a few days ago The Province reiterated The Sun's myth, solemnly reporting that Mr. Anscomb would soon hurry to Ottawa to rescue British Columbia's rights. Mr. Anscomb is doing nothing of the sort, since no rights were surrendered, except for the period of the present agreement.

If that agreement is not renewed the provincial government will enjoy the right to impose a provincial income tax on top of the federal tax and the taxpayers will enjoy the right of paying two taxes.

Unless the taxpayer pays more than he is paying now, through two tax collectors, the provincial government cannot secure any more revenue than it is now obtaining from the existing federal subsidy. That is a mathematical fact. The Vancouver press may not be interested in it but we imagine the taxpayers are.

Unfortunately most of them, who depend on the Vancouver press for information, have been given the wildest caricature of this business and the provincial government, for reasons of its own, has not seen fit to enlighten them.

So far as the tax agreement is concerned Mr. Anscomb is quite right in complaining of the irresponsibility of the press in general. It is to be hoped Mr. Anscomb himself will be more responsible in negotiating with the federal government on an agreement which provides him with something like a quarter of his revenue and saves the taxpayers from paying two income taxes.

'Mister' Sounds Good To Us

A WRITER IN ONE OF CANADA'S legal publications has drawn attention to the fact that lawyers are without a suitable title for popular address. He notes that medical men, surgeons and the like are hailed by the courteous prefix "Doctor" and respond graciously to this term of respect.

A lawyer, he writes, must walk in the streets and be honored with nothing more distinctive than a simple "Mister." The writer of the article seems to favor "Counselor," a term winning circulation in the United States.

Perhaps the dignity of the profession and the time, ability and expense required to gain entry to it justify a particular prefix. But the phonetic equivalent of "Counselor" already is in use. "Councillor" is a member of a council.

Still, there are many more professions and vocations which lack specific designations for purposes of address. Only one figure stands out in Canada's folklore, if it may be called such, who is remembered as "Newsy," and he was a hockey and lacrosse player, not a journalist. No one attaches dignity to those members of the craft who have been given the designation "Scoop" or "Ace."

Moreover, a few weeks ago, an eminent Canadian jurist, addressing new barristers, concentrated his remarks on the high integrity required for the profession. He urged the young men to weigh carefully the cases they were asked to take and to eschew actions which brought discredit on the calling.

Probably his words are more worthy of consideration than those of the contributor to the legal publication. Without reproach we suggest it is more important for the legal fraternity to conduct itself—as it usually does—as a way to deserve no less dignified a title than "Mister." There are many worse appellations, some applied to lawyers. And in a land which isn't keen on titles, respect will be accorded to those who achieve it through effort and ability, rather than mere admission to any particular calling.

The Changing Indian

THE VANCOUVER SUN THE OTHER day pointed to the Calgary by-election earlier this month to illustrate what it terms the "very core of Canada's Indian problem." Not one treaty Indian was willing, the Vancouver newspaper says, to forfeit his tax-exempt status to vote in the by-election.

The Indians preferred, it continues, to be wards of the state rather than free citizens without their specific treaty privileges and freedom from taxation.

It is questionable if the situation would have been materially different had the by-election been held on the British Columbia coast where Indians might have been in a position to vote if they cared to.

There is, nevertheless, a belief in many quarters that British Columbia Indians have moved closer to the acceptance of full citizenship rights and responsibilities than many of their cousins on the prairies. In several instances, Indian children attend public school on an equal status with other Canadians. More and more

Indian communities are showing a readiness to adopt the type of life enjoyed by white families in neighboring regions. For them, it is believed, the transition from wardship to full citizenship will not be long delayed.

There are hurdles still to be overcome. One is the separation of the enfranchised Indian from older members of his family who remain on the reservation. Others are the obvious sacrifices of special privileges granted to Indians because they are Indians.

On the coast at least, education and time are working in favor of better integration between the Indian and white settler. As the remembered grievances of an older generation die out, as educational opportunities are expanded, the young Indian is seeing himself less as the victim of the white man's invasion and more as a member of the Canadian community. The transformation will not be made overnight, but it is well on the way.

LOOSE ENDS

Consider The Diplodocus

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

WHEN a member of a Victoria labor organization objected to European immigration because the newcomers arriving here are "animals" his comrades repudiated his sentiments. I cannot see why. The arrival of new kinds of animals upon the shores of Canada is as old as life, far older than the life of man.

We need go back only to the dinosaurs, which is not very far, to realize what difficulties the immigrant always raises for the established resident.

No doubt at some annual dinosaur convention in the swamp lands which are now the oil fields of Alberta strong objection was taken to the arrival of new kinds of animals from no one knew where.

AS THE CLIMATE got colder the bear, the wolf, the buffalo and other objectionable creatures began to invade Canada. "I warn you, Mr. President, and assembled Canadians," some outraged diplodocus declared from the back of the audience, "that if these lower animals are permitted to undermine the living standards of us higher breeds the whole economy of the country will soon collapse."

Not long after that no more protests were heard from the dinosaurs. They were buried too deep under the prairie earth and snow. But at a congress of buffalo shortly afterwards it was observed by some wise member that a new animal had lately been observed to the eastward, a very low sort of animal indeed, who carried a banded rod which propelled a pointed stick at great speed against his enemies and slew them.

"THIS SPECIES," an investigating committee of buffalo reported, "unquestionably is primitive, has no culture and threatens to destroy the civilization which we have laboriously erected through centuries, but he has a certain animal cunning which bodes ill for our national way of life." Not much more was heard from the buffalo. The Indian babies were using their bones for rattles.

The new installment of lower animals owned America for a long time, unchallenged by any higher breeds. According to the present popular theory—that immigration destroys prosperity, the Indians must have been the richest creatures ever known. They had an empty continent. No one competed with them for jobs. They were never out of work, winter or summer. They had to work 16 hours or so a day merely to keep alive. Curiously enough, though they did not have to meet the competition of animals from other places, they never possessed more than a stone hatchet, a skin tent and half a dozen wives, which were really too expensive to be supported.

THEN one day the Indians who had profited by lack of competition and enjoyed the opulence of monopoly, heard strange news. No one believed it at first but the rumor turned out to be true—a new species of strange animals, astride a giant fish with white wings, had landed on the eastern shore.

"I warn you," said the war chief of the Ottawas to a conference at Hochelaga, "that while these new vermin unquestionably lack even the rudiments of a decent life, while they will certainly destroy our economic system, produce a great depression, desolate the continent and then leave it ruined, still, I am persuaded that their dumb cunning is something which we must not underestimate. They lack all historic knowledge, all sense of religion and any sign of human manners but, like the wolves and the bears which we have subdued, they will be dangerous if we once let them in here. Down, I say, with the animals from across the stinking waters!"

THE NEW arrivals turned out to be worse than the human inhabitants expected. They had round rods of iron through which, with a puff of smoke and fire, they could propel pieces of lead clear through a human body. Where that failed they introduced smallpox, which their chief general, Amherst, exploited cleverly as a weapon of total war. That war was quickly won.

As the dinosaurs, the buffalo and the Indians had foreseen, the economic system of America was completely ruined by the presence of too many people for the available jobs. The production of wealth, brought to its peak by the Indian hunters and their squaws who cultivated a few square yards of corn and pumpkins, began a permanent decline. America slipped away year by year into its present destitution when it could have been saved so easily if the dinosaurs had only been left alone in the first place.

THEY were rich. They were fat. They were happy. Ask any dinosaur and he will tell you that immigration wrecked the country. The buffalo said the same thing. So do the Indians. And at any public meeting today you are sure to see a well-fed man drive up in a big car to warn the audience that we shall soon go broke altogether if we let any Europeans in here to take our jobs away from us and maybe, worse of all, start producing useful goods.

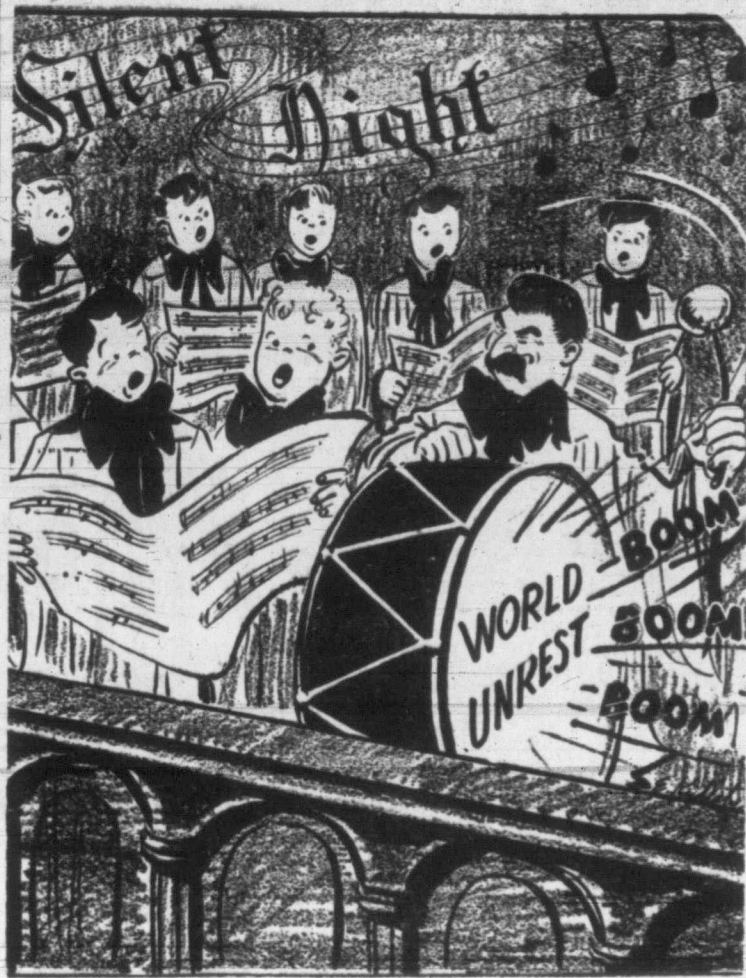

Worn Out

Edmonton Journal

Just what is the meaning of that word "intellectual" which is so lavishly, indiscriminately and confusingly thrown about nowadays? It's difficult to pick up a newspaper or magazine without learning that intellectuals are on the warpath somewhere. We are told that the Communist revolution in China was led by intellectuals, that the intellectuals of India or Egypt or Madagascar are turning to Communism, that French intellectuals despair about the future of the world, and that Senator McCarthy is going to drive "twisted intellectuals" out of the U.S. State Department. But who are they, anyway?

In actual fact, the word is one of a number—"liberal," "reactionary," "progressive," and possibly "fascist"—which have been so tossed about in party warfare, and used so carelessly as epithets, that all have lost whatever meaning they once possessed. It would be a contribution to clearer thinking if they were all superannuated.

The Sour Note

Under Our Roof

By JOHN RHODES STURDY

HOLLYWOOD—"You know," Col. S. Skeffington-Smutts (Ret.) said to me yesterday, "this Hollywood is all very nice and fine, but I think we ought to go home for Christmas."

"All of us?" I inquired, meaning not only the Colonel and me, but Hamish (who incidentally is now out of jail on a suspended sentence) and Anastasia Wiggs-Wiggs and Little Augie.

"Yes," said the Colonel. Now, if the Colonel really meant it, that was the best news I had heard in many a moon, because we all know that the Colonel comes from Back East and so do Hamish and Anastasia and Little Augie, and if they went home for Christmas I would be free of them for the first time since last summer when they first arrived on our island up in B.C.

"I think that's a great idea, Colonel," I said, dreaming of a happy Christmas alone with my own family.

"We could fly," mused the Colonel, rattling his sabre. "By Jove, we will fly! I think, my boy, though, that you'd better send a telegram to your wife. She's probably not expecting us, and—by the way—I only eat the white meat of turkey."

"Home, he says! With a feeling of doom in my heart I tried to dissuade him. I reminded the Colonel that he was under contract to Perfect Pictures, Inc., as technical adviser for a movie to be called "The Poona Lancers," and I added a vivid description of the terrible things that happened to anyone in Hollywood who broke a contract.

The Colonel drew himself up. (See Note below.) "I do not intend to go A.W.O.L.," he said stiffly. "I intend to ask for Leave of Absence."

Of course it is impossible to argue with the Colonel once he has set his mind on anything, so I soon found myself in a taxi with him on the way to see Manny Manx, executive producer at Perfect studios. At that my hopes suddenly rose again. If there is any sure way of not getting anything out of Manny Manx, it is to ask him for it. I felt confident that Stacey S.S. would not jeopardize his position at Perfect Pictures Inc. by going "home" for Christmas against orders.

Inside the studio we reached Manny's palatial executive bungalow and after wading through broadloom up to our ankles reached the great man's secretary. "Colonel S. Skeffington-Smutts," the Colonel announced. "Will you please tell Mr. Manx that I am free for the next five minutes and can see him now."

The willowy blonde behind the desk was so thunderstruck by this approach that she opened an inner door, stuck her head inside and said: "The Colonel will see you now, Mr. Manx. I mean—"

But the Colonel was already through the doorway. The blonde staggered dazedly back to the desk and suddenly looked at me.

"What are you?" she demanded. "I'm a writer," I said. I got out of the office before she called the studio police. Through the window I could see her down on her hands and knees, scrubbing the spot on the broadloom where I had stood.

I went to the commissary and had a cup of coffee to pass the time, and it must have been about 10 minutes later that I re-emerged into the sunlight. I ran smack into Manny Manx and a cordon of assistants. "Oh," said the great one, stopping. "The Colonel is looking for you to go back to town." He bobbed his head furiously. "Great man, the Colonel, great soldier. Proud to have him visit the studio. Mentioned to me that he wanted to fly home for Christmas. I've put my private plane at his disposal. Know how crowded the commercial lines can be on the holidays. Always like to do things for the army. Wonderful type, the Colonel. Glad to have him drop in."

"Yes, Mr. Manx," I said, bewildered. He started to move away, and then a thought seemed to strike him. "By the way," the great man added, "who is he?"

I couldn't bring myself to answer. And evidently some other thought had just entered the great mind, because Manny Manx suddenly ignored me and walked into the commissary.

It could only happen in Hollywood, and so we are flying home in Manny Manx's private plane and I have wired my wife and she is deliciously happy. Or I should say, she is delicious period.

(Note: A phrase that has always fascinated me: People in books are always drawing themselves up, but I don't know how it's done. I used to be able to draw myself up on a high bar (before my muscles gave out) and I can still draw myself up to an ordinary bar, but—Oh, skip it!)

Milk Problem

Ottawa Citizen

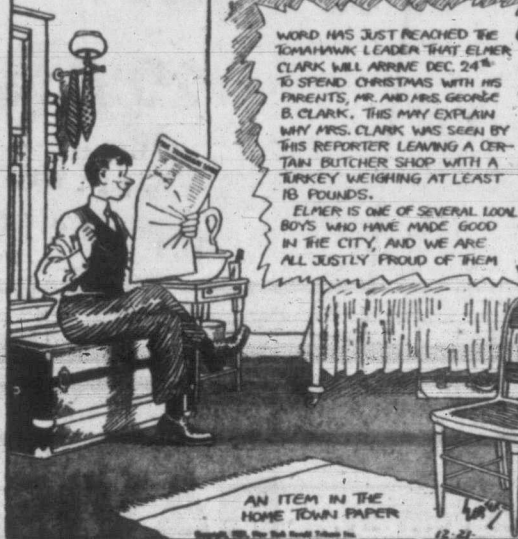

Part of the solution for high fluid milk prices may lie in shifting more of the price load on to subsidiary dairy products, i.e., the consumer might be called on to pay more for cream, ice cream, butter and cheese, in order to pay less for fluid milk.

There are other ways to reduce the cost of milk. One is through a system of home deliveries three times a week. Another is through a price differential of one or two cents a quart on milk bought at the store on a cash-and-carry basis. Many housewives have been urging for some time the adoption of either or both of these devices, but so far without result.

As Our Readers See It

HONESTY AND POLICY

Mr. Frank Partridge says a lot of good, capable men shun high political office because they fear abuse and back-biting. Have we not heard that one many times before?

Ever notice the struggle to get these high political offices? Fortunes are spent, lying becomes an art, bribery is a common practice, and those who make the grade hang on for dear life regardless of abuse and back-biting. The only time they quit these high offices is when we, the people, throw them out.

He says he has known Anscomb for over 30 years and vouches for his honesty. So what, ain't you and I honest? All people are honest except a small percentage.

Mr. Partridge, I do like the way you ended your letter, by saying "Let's have fair play!"

FRED BARNES.

BROCK AND HUMOR

I thoroughly enjoy most of David Brock's articles in the Times but I do wish he wouldn't pick on my favorite authors and publications. First he gives the brush-off to Betty MacDonald whom I think one of America's top humorists and whose opinion D. Brock might add to the gaiety of nations.

Now he takes a dim view of the New Yorker.

The New Yorker is in a class by itself in the field of journalism. Its humor is refreshing in conformity-ridden Canada especially. I should like to mention a few items from its pages which have been a never-ending source of enjoyment to myself.

There was the story of Deedy Burton whose pet cat escaped on to the roof of the house and she proceeded to ring up the New York fire brigade. Then there was the description of a man of convivial habits who was described by a lady friend thusly: "Payther is full of blather when he's fightin' the booze." And the reply of former Mayor O'Dwyer when asked by a friend if he knew O'Sullivan, "Sure, an I know O'Sullivan, the man with the big ears who plays the violin."

Like Mr. Pringle of Langford I believe that what Canada needs most is a sense of genuine humor and I wish David Brock would stop trying to kill it off.

WALDRON GREENE.

IMMORTALITY

A news item, Dec. 10: "Archbishop J. Francis A. McIntyre of Los Angeles challenges Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt's fitness to head the United Nations Committee on Human Rights."

A few years ago it was Francis Cardinal Spellman of New York who attacked Mrs. Roosevelt because she stood up for the U.S. constitution's principle of keeping so-called religion out of the public schools.

A new item also tells that Mrs. Roosevelt denies any disbelief in immortality. So do I, as long as we put immortality on a reasonable plane.

Those of us human beings, who give something worthwhile to the world while we are alive, be it in acts or in thought, can be sure that their spirit, their soul will live on and on in those who come after them.

Long after the world has forgotten the Spellmans, the McIntyres and their ilk, a Spinoza, a Victor Hugo, a George Bernard Shaw, a Marconi, an Einstein, a Beethoven, a Lincoln, a Tschickowsky, to mention a few of the immortals, will keep on living for ever!

F. H. STAVERMAN.

Ups And Downs

By BRIAN TOBIN

"T WAS only the other day," said the Elevator Man, "that I came across the strange case of William Figg, a pitiful figure if ever there was one. Figg was a victim of that modern disease, statistics. He suffered from one sharp attack after another until the final crisis set in. After that he hadn't a chance. As in the case of most illnesses, the early stages weren't noticeable. As Figg recalled at the time, he felt only a certain nervousness at the mention of large figures. It was nothing serious, just an uneasiness, which made him want to get away. That was the tough part. He couldn't get away. Everywhere he went, in everything he read, figures assaulted his eyes. And they kept getting larger and larger. It wasn't long before Figg could not control himself when confronted with numbers running into millions. A row of zeros was enough to make him break out into sores. The malady developed rapidly after that. Within a few months any set of digits over a hundred thousand set him screaming. Going down!"

"By this time," said the Elevator Man, "Figg's friends were thoroughly alarmed. They sought a general practitioner, who referred Figg to a nerve specialist, who sent him along to a noted psychiatrist. The stricken man took a course of treatments, during which he was blindfolded for weeks at a time so that he could read nothing about the national debt, the distance of stars or the price index. He was making progress and they finally took off the bandage and showed him the doctor's bill. He had a relapse and had to be confined to a padded cell, Lower main!"

"Figg died," said the Elevator Man, "in a particularly revolting manner. Babbling incoherently, he had spent his time in the cell scribbling long rows of figures on the walls. Instead of paper dolls he cut out thousands of paper zeros. He counted and tabulated millions of specks of dust. He seemed almost happy in a ghastly sort of way. The end came without warning. Through gross negligence in the kitchen, Figg was served a bowl of alphabet soup. Somehow or other a broken 'Q' and an 'I' and some 'O's' floated to the top and grouped themselves in the form of Canada's gross national product for 1951—$21,000,000,000. Figg inhaled sharply from the spoonful at his lips. They found him that evening, his purple lips forming a perfect 'Q'. By an ironical twist of fate he was the 1,000,000th person to have choked to death since the Battle of Naseby."

For Retiring
Councillors

Two veteran members of Saanich Municipal Council, William C. Kersey and George Austin, attended their last meeting Thursday night as councillors.
"You have both had the interests of Saanich at heart during your years of service," Reeve Joseph W. Casey said at the conclusion of the council's last meeting of 1951.
On behalf of the council, the reeve presented to Councillor Austin, senior of the two, a silver water jug, and to Councillor Kersey a cocktail shaker and glasses.
"I don't feel sad at retiring," Councillor Kersey, a member since 1943, told the council.
"The last year was the best of all," Councillor Austin remarked. Of the last 15 years he spent 13 on the council.

Yule Tree Hunt Costs Woman Life

EVELETH, Minn., Dec. 21 (AP).—Lost overnight in deep woods, pulling a sled, to bring out the body of Mrs. Arne Maki, 40, who shed most of his outer clothing to keep his wife warm while he went for help, was being treated at the Eveleth Hospital.
Firemen from neighboring Virginia trekked four miles into the woods on a hunt for their Christmas tree, an Eveleth housewife perished in the sub-zero cold and her husband was badly frost-bitten.

HOME GARDEN

by Jack Beasall

Jack

Last Christmas we told about the Feast of the Winter Solstice and how the ancient peoples prayed to the Sun - God for three days, that the sun, which sustains life on this planet, would not continue its southern journey and fail to return. And on the fourth day, as the shadows became shorter, a great thanksgiving feast was held.

Today, the shortest day of 1951, finds the populace rushing hither and yon. Gift lists are being checked and rechecked, and preparations are being made for the feast which is still observed on the fourth day.

With the gifts all wrapped, the invitations sent, the Christmas dinner planned, the tree and the decorations giving a festive air to the home, the dream of a happy Christmas Day relaxing by the fireside is almost reached.

But wait! Has someone been forgotten? Who is looking after our little feathered friends? Where are they to find a Christmas dinner?

It is doubtful if they envy us either our warmth or our feast, but finding the food they need is becoming increasingly difficult at this time of year. The early gales have emptied the last seeds from the pods, the frosts have driven the insects down to a warmer soil, berries are becoming more scarce, and drinking water harder to find when ice covers everything.

But if Santa should hang a shallow paper cup in the branches of an apple tree, and fill it with suet and seed, there will again be great rejoicing and a thanksgiving feast. Even a piece of suet nailed to the wall of a shed will give pleasure to the birds and to those who watch them.

The problem of keeping seed on a flat surface despite wind and rain, is easily solved if some melted fat is poured onto a board and sprinkled with seed before it cools.

As you sit by your fireside, your Christmas will be complete when you look through the window and see God's other creatures enjoying the Feast of the Winter Solstice.

Yule Curfew Hits Montreal Bistros Hard

MONTREAL, Dec. 21 (BUP).—A 10 p.m. New Year's Eve curfew caused a touching turnabout today in the bars and bistros of this little bit of Paris.

The gayest city in the nation was glum.

Bartenders began spicing off problems to customers.

Entertainers were looking for a good floor show to pick them up.

Musicians were playing the blues despite requests for festive airs.

The curfew ordered by Premier Maurice Duplessis had hit where it hurt most—in the pocketbook. Spokesman for 2,000 musicians, 400 entertainers and 2,000 waiters, waitresses, bartenders and chefs, said the curfew would cost the nightlife industry $150,000 in wages and tips alone.

Nobody would hazard a guess as to the money the bar and bistro owners would lose.

And, since this would be the third and strictest Christmas curfew in as many years in Quebec, the industry was afraid that Montreal would lose its cherished reputation as "a bit of Paris in the New World."

The curfew came in the wake of a Duplessis-ordered drive against niteries remaining open until 6 a.m. and earlier. The premier decreed that all licensed premises must close at 9 p.m. on Christmas Eve, 10 p.m. on New Year's Eve and 11 p.m. on Jan. 6, the Feast of Epiphany.

YATELY, Eng. (CP).—Residents of this Hampshire village complained that trials of a British jet airliner shattered their nerves. The big machine was said to have caused plaster to fall from walls in low-flying swoops over the village.

RECORD IN HOLIDAY DEATHS PREDICTED

Identity Of Millionth U.S. Auto Victim Will Never Be Known; Certainty Of It Is

By ALFRED LEECH
United Press Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, Dec. 21 (UP).—Death closed in today on the millionth traffic victim in the United States, who may be someone you know.

"Mr. Million" will die tomorrow, probably about noon, according to the National Safety Council.

His death, the council said, will be part of the Christmas holiday toll. The council predicted that 600 persons will be killed in traffic accidents during the holiday, beginning at 6 p.m. today and ending at midnight Tuesday. This would be the largest holiday toll in history.

Despite heavy snow which slowed traffic in much of the nation, the toll climbed steadily toward the 1,000,000 mark.

The council reported that as of 4 p.m. Thursday 999,780 persons had been killed since the first automobile victim was run down on a New York street in 1899.

Since the last council count, the United Press recorded 24 additional deaths.

When it became known, several months ago, that the millionth death would occur in the latter part of December, safety experts began calling him "Mr. Million." But, instead of a "mister," the victim could be an elderly woman doing her Christmas shopping, a housewife driving to get the groceries or the little girl next door, on her way to go ice skating.

The identity of the millionth victim will never be known. In the early days of the automobile—before it became a wholesale dealer in death—statistics of its victims were recorded loosely.

Multiple Manipulation

You have seen plenty of basketball players whose legs were twice as long as usual. Now it appears that the Syracuse Nationals are using players with more than their fair share of arms. But the fact is that Wally Osterkorn sprouted the extra pair of limbs when an opponent made an unsuccessful attempt to check him. (NEA-Telephoto.)

IT'S MY VIEW

By BILL WALKER, Sports Editor

There's nothing like a few days of holidays to make one wish for more, or whatever happened to the Calgary Stampede? 25 goals in two games...? Which can't help but make one think out loud "Wonder who sat with Murphy Chamberlain of the Canucks comin' through the Rockies...? It's not hard to see how why Murphy wants to get hold of kids like Andy Heberton and Co. ... Canucks are halfway through the grind and have 20 losses... It's going to be a long pull... and it's all uphill...

Then, of course, there's the case of the Travis brothers, Ab and Joe, and Victoria United... Ab was willing to forget the incident a week ago but apparently some misinformed parties don't wish to let the matter drop... Oh well! United they stand and divided they fall... It's up to United... from now on petty jealousies should be aired in the club rooms. The Dominion title could hang in the balance, fellows... See, also, where they just found out in Vancouver that Norm Baker is coaching the Islanders...

And how about those two "les enfants terribles" Andy Heberton and Bob Frampton... Andy's got 19 goals, Bob 18, with better than half the season to go... and speaking of push, let's give Eddie Dorohoy the credit he's due... He made Eddie Mazur a goal scorer last year... and he certainly isn't hurting Heberton and Frampton this season... Down at Seattle, "inkies" were asking "who's that No. 3?" when Leon Bouchard hung Stan Maxwell on the boards... Roger Leger has been doing a good job in tutoring "Butch" and should receive the orchids if Leon develops...

Did you know that there has been only one scoreless game played in the N.H.L. this season?... Detroit and Boston... or that the average period of hockey takes between 29 and 31 minutes to play... 28 minutes is considered close to the best time possible... However, one period in the N.H.L. took 45 minutes this year... only three active players in the big time have scored 200 or more goals... they are Max Bentley, Maurice Richard and Doug Bentley... Incidentally, Doug Bentley, who isn't so active hockeywise, is rumored on the one hand as returning to the Hawks after the new year, and on the other as the next coach of the Saskatoon Quakers... he is resting at De Lisle these days...

Ralph Kiner has averaged 43 home runs a season in six years with the Pittsburgh Pirates or an average of a home run every 12.6 times at bat, one time at bat off the pace Babe Ruth set in his 22 years under the big tent... Ted Williams has clobbered a fourmaster every 15.7 times at the plate... And wasn't it just about this time last season that Tony Hemmerling's Portland Eagles started to slip... Tony's Seattle Ironmen are shuddering at the moment, but those Eagles really bounced back didn't they?... Moe Roberts is the oldest goalie to see action in the N.H.L. playing one period for the Black Hawks recently against the Red Wings... he is 46... Lester Patrick held the previous age record of 44 when he thrust himself between the pipes in the Stanley Cup finals between Rangers and Montreal Maroons, April 7, 1928...

About the only thing certain about baseball in Victoria is that negotiations between the Athletics and George Norgan are proceeding, though nobody will say so in that many words... it could be that Norgan doesn't want the whole kaboodle by himself, though nobody will say that, either... At any rate it's a well-founded rumor in Seattle such is the case... Here, too, for that matter... Biggest little name in northern basketball at the moment is Johnny O'Brien of Seattle College... he pumped 40 points through the hoop in a recent game... There's also Bob Houbregs of the University of Washington who is a son of John Houbregs, the old P.C.L. puck star...

JEANNOPPE TOO SHARP FOR VANCE

But There Was No Lack Of Action

Spirit and action galore was the theme of the intercity boxing matches at Victoria Ballroom Thursday evening.

Larry Jeannoppe, a hard-hitting youngster from Vancouver, drew the nod over Earl Vance of the Police Club in the feature. Vance took the first round by using his usual style, moving in on his opponent, slowly using short jabs.

In the second stanza, the Vancouverite introduced himself to the cautious Vance with a barrage of aggressive punching. Always forcing the fight, Jeannoppe time and time again cornered Vance against the ropes to win going away.

ROSE NOT SO ROSEY
Either Peter Rose underestimated his adversary, Bert Wilkinson, or he needs a few more courses in the art of scientific boxing.

Right from the beginning of their four-rounder, Rose was swinging at Wilkinson as if he was blind-folded.

Meanwhile Wilkinson was satisfied to take it easy through each round and look his opponent over before letting fly with a padded missile.

The Baby MacDonald-Paul Calvey fight turned into a battle of blood before the last round was over. The decision was first awarded to Calvey, who seemed to be taking the brunt of the attack, but was reversed after the show was over.

Len Thomas of St. Louis College must have been born under a lucky star. He was taking a beating from Vancouverite Jim Durkin, but won the bout when Durkin broke his thumb.

Nick Lyster's scrappy McGaw judges came out armed with the judges' decisions. Tommy won his bout with Bunny Crabbe of Chemainus, while younger brother Gordy came out even with Bobby Anderson of Vancouver.

The mainland's Peter Durkin proved too much for St. Louis' Rusty Gropp in a 77-pound fixture. Terry Hallam of Esquimalt made short work of mainland Mike Steele.

Ladysmith boxer Glen Woodley got the decision over Jimmy Thompson of Chemainus.

An interested spectator at the inter-city boxing card was Ross Durkin, secretary-treasurer of the B.C. Amateur Boxing Association. Ross was helpful in settling a heated discussion over the tie decision in the Bobby Anderson-Gordy McGaw fight.

Some spectators at the fight who apparently have a fairly good understanding about B.C. boxing regulations, thought it was against the rules for a fight to end in a draw.

Tide Squad Named For Opening Cup Feature

Well-Blended Unit To Meet Vancouver Wednesday

Ready and rarin' to go! That will be Victoria's Crimson Tide by the time Boxing Day rolls around.

Final team selections were made by coach Sid Gaunt, manager Campbell Forbes and team captain Keith MacDonald Thursday night, and except for one more practise, the team scheduled to meet Vancouver Reps at Macdonald Park at 1:30 is ready to roll.

The Tide is scheduled to play three McKechnie Cup games this season, two here and one away. The second home contest will be held in February and will match the Tide against Varsity Thunderbirds. The third game will see the Reps playing North Vancouver on the mainland.

The Boxing Day game will be played rain or shine and the only factors that could possibly cause a cancellation are frozen ground or poor flying conditions from Vancouver.

Kid Matthews Offered Title Fight

SEATTLE, Wash. Dec. 21 (UP)—Harry (Kid) Matthews said Thursday night it was entirely up to Jack Hurley, his manager, whether he would fight lightweight champion Joey Maxim for his title next February.

"I'll fight anyone Hurley tells me to. My manager does all of my business," Matthews said. Maxim's manager, Jack Kearns, notified the International Boxing Club Thursday that the titleholder is willing to meet Matthews on February 22.

Matchmaker Al Weil immediately sent telegrams to Matthews' manager, offering the Seattle 175-pounder the title shot and 15 per cent of the gate receipts.

Hurley reportedly was en route from Chicago to Portland, Ore., to see tonight's heavyweight bout between Ezzard Charles and Joe Kaut. Hurley recently said his boy was switching to the heavyweight division because he had given up hopes of getting a title fight with Maxim, who has defended his title only against Bob Murphy since winning it from Freddie Mills of England Jan. 24, 1950.

Al Jagger is the new manager of the Alcos Football Club.

The appointment came during a meeting held Thursday evening to straighten out moral difficulties within the club. Jim Ackincklose was elected coach under the new reorganization plan.

Reportedly, the club still has 16 players and will finish its schedule and complete its commitment to the Victoria and District Football Association.

HAWKS DROP ANOTHER

Leafs Hobbled; Wings Tie Mark

Mid-season has a bad habit of catching up on the National Hockey League Toronto Maple Leafs. Every year about this time Toronto sports scribes threaten to begin screaming, "what's wrong with the Leafs."

After the 1951 Stanley Cup winners' showing in their last two games, it may not be long before the hue and cry flares forth once again.

The Leafs appear to be running out of gas. But then they could be saving it all for Saturday night's home appearance against Boston Bruins. That's Young Canada Night when goalkeeper Turk Broda will be honored for his 13 years of service with the club.

Sunday night in Chicago Toronto blew a 3-0 lead and bowed 4-3 to the Black Hawks. Last night they let Montreal Canadiens tally three times in the final session for a 4-1 victory.

The Leafs were outplayed to such an extent in the final period they failed to get a single shot at Gerry McNeil in the Montreal nets. Leaf goalie Al Rollins handled 12 shots.

In the only other N.H.L. game, Detroit Red Wings downed the Black Hawks 6-4 in Chicago to tie an 11-year league record for road competition. The first-place club has played 15 games away from home without a defeat.

The achievement tied Boston Bruins' 15-straight set during the 1940-41 season.

BIG PENALTY
Toronto's Tod Sloan started things off for the Canadiens in the rather dull game at Montreal. The score was tied 1-1 when he received a penalty for holding.

EAST DOMINATES VOTE

West Defies C.A.H.A.; To Retain Icing Rule

EDMONTON, Dec. 21 (CP)—The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association may have ruled out the new icing-the-puck rule for amateur hockey but so far as the west is concerned it will remain—at least through the rest of this season.

In Lethbridge Thursday secretary-manager J. Harper Parry of the Western Canada Junior Hockey League said the circuit will not revert to the old icing rule as voted by the C.A.H.A. Winnipeg reports officials of the Manitoba Amateur Hockey Association in January. At Saskatoon, president Lou Withers of the Saskatchewan Junior League hinted that the S.J.H.L. will continue to play under the new rule, following suit with the Manitoba and Western Canada Leagues.

Parry said he had talked to coaches, managers and referees in every city of the western league and all were in favor of retaining the new rule.

"Nearly every hockey man in the west wanted to keep the new rule in effect," he said, "but officials down east wanted the old one and voted that way."

The C.A.H.A. executive voted 13-10 in favor of returning to the old rule which allows the puck to be fired into the end zone from just across the centre line. The new rule, put into effect this year in an attempt to eliminate gangling hockey in corners, calls for the puck to be carried or passed over the blue line without reaching the goal line.

Don't Let The Eyes Fool You

One of the most improved players on the Cougars in recent games has been the brown-eyed defenseman Leon Bouchard. The eligible bachelor-type partner of coach Roger Leger came to the club from University of Montreal this season and after a slow start has more than been making his presence felt. He'll be in action tonight against Seattle Ironmen at Memorial Arena at 8:30.

SHOOTIN' MATCH TONIGHT

'Pistol' Meets The 'Trigger'

Thar's gonna be a shootin' down at Arena Gulch tonight, pardner. The Pistol's a'lookin' for the Trigger.

Pardon the Hoppalong Cassidy reference but the Seattle Ironmen are coming to Victoria to play the Cougars and the two main participants may be Joe (Trigger) Bell of Seattle and the local contender, Ed (Pistol) Dorohoy.

At present, Bell is tied with New Westminster's Ollie Dorohoy for the lead in the Pacific Coast Hockey League scoring race.

However, Ed is only three points behind the co-leaders and could catch or pass them with a good night.

WIN-HUNGRY
Winless in their last six games, Seattle will need a victory tonight to safeguard their second-place standing and would enjoy nothing more than avenging the 7-2 lacing the Cougars hung on them in Seattle Sunday. The Ironmen's second-place margin has been cut to only one point over Saskatoon Quakers. Getting back to Dorohoy and Bell, Eddie has regained his scoring punch that was temporarily lost during and following his short period of inactivity when he was injured in the eye by a stick in Vancouver. Pivoting Bob Frampton and Andy Heberton on the new kid-line, he has seen his assist total mount with every recent game. Bell totaled 78 points last season, nine behind Ed Dorohoy who won the scoring crown. However, Bell was the leading goal-getter with 46. This year he has 23 goals and 19 assists for 42 points.

On the OUTDOOR FRONT

By ROY THORSEN

A MERRY CHRISTMAS TO ALL!

A fella whose really been bit by the fishin' bug is inclined to be a mite forgetful of things in his hurry to follow his favorite pastime—for instance, the little woman, left home to do all the dirty work.

This little morsel that caught our eye the other day could sum up what some "deserted" wives think about the whole thing.

Thorsen

Br-r-r-r! It's cold out there in Saanich Inlet, but there's fish to be had if you've got more intestinal fortitude than us to go after them.

Grills, large ones, are there for the taking, from Bamerton right down. Murlet Peard tells us the fishing is really hot off Bamerton, the anglers trolling abalone spoon and bucktail flies. Tod Inlet and vicinity is offering small springs in the early morning and evening. It's not a record, but the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association membership this year soared to 1,120, reports Secretary George Douglas. The 1950 figure was 941.

Butt fish were scarce during the spring salmon months. Twenty-five were awarded. Top fish of the year—it'll win a diamond in the eye of the salmon on the silver button—was taken by Clarence McConnell of Victoria Sporting Goods. It went 35 pounds. Douglas said three others, including a junior, won silver awards, 30 pounds up to 40, and 21 bronze buttons were awarded.

Annual meeting will be held in the New Year. Big question will be whether the general membership wishes to continue with the ladder derby system operated for the first time this year. I personally think they'll want to keep it up.

Big Salmon Scarcity Hurts Venture

Scarcity of big salmon is blamed for the fact the first ladder promotion ended in the red, but not nearly the $1,200 figure earlier quoted by someone. Ron Page was the winner of the Humber Handicap Trophy on the trap ranges of the Victoria Gun Club last Sunday. He won the season-long trophy chase in a shootoff with Tommy Zaccarelli. Roger Monteith was slated for a shootoff berth but withdrew to make it a young generation contest. Oee Fletcher took the C. & C. "C" Class trophy to his trophy cabinet. He won this in an argument with H. Burkard.

If you want to hear about a thrilling fight with a fish, ask Sam Lane about his recent tussle with a 150-pound sailfish in the Gulf of California.

Steelhead Fair At Alberni

"That was a 90-minute job. It fought like hell," said Sam. It was his biggest thrill but his bag also included 35-45 dolphins. Bon-its blueback tuna and king mackerel. Sam says Greyhound buses will take you right through to the fishing grounds.

It is a little too early as yet for steelheaders to get in much sport.

Our information is that there are only a few offered in the Cowichan River.

Up in the Alberni country, though, Steelhead fishing gets a fair rating in the Ash, Stamp and Somass Rivers. It is best in the Puntledge-River near Courtenay, the local game office's Don Kiers reports.

The huge success of the recent game banquet and dance of the Victoria Fish and Game Protective Association at their Goldstream clubhouse is a guarantee that the affair will become an annual event. This sportsmen's club is really starting to pep up now.

Limited Week-End Action Faces Minor Footballers

As the first half is over in most divisions, the Lower Island Junior and Juvenile Football Association will present only three games over the week-end.

On Saturday, Eagles and James Bay Merchants of the third division meet at Bullen Park in a game that could decide the first half winner. Merchants are in first place by two points and a win for Eagles would force a playoff.

The other Saturday game presents a similar case as Mic Macs and Combine Peewees of the fourth division meet at lower Beacon Hill. Mic Macs hold a two-point lead over Combines for first place.

Sunday afternoon it will be Combines and Heaneys tangling in a junior game at lower Beacon Hill. Heaneys are in first place with a three-point lead over Combines but there are four cancelled games to pick up before the first half standings can be decided. All games start at 1.

Turkey Shoot

Members of all local sportsmen's clubs are invited to take part in the big turkey shoot to be staged by the Victoria Fish and Game Protective Association at the Goldstream clubhouse grounds on Dec. 30. Shooting will start at 10.30 and continue throughout the day. "It's open to all who wish to come along," said Ray Ritchie, president.

Robinson-Olson Battle Approved

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 21 (AP)—Sugar Ray Robinson will defend his middleweight title against Carl (Bo Bo) Olson of Honolulu for $1 here Jan. 24. The 15-round bout, for the Damon Runyon Cancer Fund, was approved by the California State Athletic Commission.

Heavy Brackets Loaded But Light Boys Scarce

NEW YORK, Dec. 21 (UP)—Boxing is coming down to the end of a year studded with sensational bouts but looking ahead today it can be prophesied that 1952 should be even bigger within the squared circle.

No Law Violation Seen In Ring Death

NEW YORK, Dec. 21 (CP)—A New York county grand jury Wednesday found no law violation in the death of boxer George Flores after a bout last August.

Flores died Sept. 3 of ring injuries received Aug. 29 in Madison Square Garden. The grand jury recommended that ringside doctors be appointed and rotated like referees and judges by the state commission.

SOCCER LADDIES PLAY BALL WITH SPORT FANS

The Victoria and District Football Association has arranged its exhibition game between Esquimalt and Victoria United so that soccer fans can enjoy their Boxing Day to the fullest.

The holiday game is scheduled to begin at 11 Boxing Day morning so that fans can see the game, go home for dinner and then go to the hockey or rugby game in the afternoon if they wish.

The game is a departure from the non-fraternisation feeling that has existed between the league and United for some time.

Three other district league games have been scheduled over the week-end. On Saturday Duncan and Legion will tangle in the feature match at Athletic Park. At the same time, Victoria Wests and Alcos will meet at lower Beacon Hill Park. On Sunday it will be Victoria City versus Heaneys at lower Beacon Hill. All three games start at 2.30.

CHRISTMAS DAY OUTING

Hardy Types Only Wanted

If you are the hardy type and you have nothing to do at 11 Christmas morning, the Victoria Amateur Swimming Club wants you.

Once again, as is the custom each Christmas Day, a band of grease-covered swimmers will plunge into the Inner Harbor and paddle around as if it was the most comfortable bath in the world.

So far this year, there have been six entries received, two girls and four boys, and many more are anticipated.

A 50-yard handicap is given for the frigid swim and there is no age limit on entries. Prize of the race is the Captain M. D. Harbour Trophy, currently held by Mary Armstrong.

Persons wishing more information on entries can get details from Bill Robinson at Colquitz 252.

Jones Open To Offers

VANCOUVER! Dec. 21 (CP)—Jackie Jones, erstwhile St. Andrews soccer player, is available for offers but he won't shop around.

"If any club wants me to play, I'll be only too glad to oblige, but I'm not going to do someone out of a job."

He also made plain in an interview that he isn't after any "fast money deals."

Jack says he quit the Scots, but manager Tommy McNeil says he was "fired."

NEW YORK—Bobby Lloyd, 346, Wilkes-Barre, Pa., stopped Charley Williams, 148, Newark, N.J., 161.

UNIFORM GOLF RULES

No Room For Argument

NEW YORK, Dec. 21 (AP)—Golfers with a yen to travel may go anywhere after Jan. 1 without fear of running afoul of rules with which they are not familiar.

On that date the uniform code, worked out last May by representatives of the United States Golf Association and the Royal and Ancient Golf Club of St. Andrews, Scotland, go into effect.

The change which undoubtedly will be of major interest to most golfers is the abolition of the stymie. Henceforth, when a player believes an opponent's ball to be in the line of his putt he may request that it be marked and lifted, no matter what the distance between the two balls.

The new code also will permit use of the smaller British ball in international competitions in the United States, and it standardizes the penalty for out-of-bounds, lost balls and unplayable balls. The penalty will be stroke and distance in all countries instead of only distance as provided in Britain the last two years.

Inventive Americans with their trick putters get a break in the new code. The Royal and Ancient rules insisted that the shaft of a putter must enter at the heel, or end, of the blade, and that the angle of the shaft must point to that spot. The new rule permits the shaft to be fixed at any point on the blade.

Santa Fights Behind Iron Curtain

LONDON, Dec. 21 (Reuters)—A Stalin vs. St. Nicholas battle is being waged behind the Iron

Curtain. The forces of the Reds are massed against traditional observances of the old gentleman's arrival Christmas Eve. The Communists don't object to Santa Claus in person—the Russians honor him themselves under the name of Grandfather Frost. But they're determined to wipe out or reduce sharply all religious observances. Russian authorities ignore Christmas and contend there never was a babe in the manger. They concentrate celebrations on the New Year, with a mixture of kids' parties and Communist slogans. Party chiefs try to turn Christmas into a folk festival, but old traditions die hard. Reports indicate that Santa is fighting back.

Predominantly Roman Catholic countries such as Poland, Czechoslovakia and Hungary still want to observe Christmas. So does the Communist-ruled part of Germany. Since the party has to come to some kind of working agreement with the church in many matters, Christmas celebrations are tolerated in many Iron Curtain countries.

In Russia, Dec. 25 and 26 are ordinary work days. The orthodox church celebrates Christmas with a religious festival about 10 days later, since they still work on the old-style calendar.

'Take Care,' Saanich Admonished

Unfinished House Delicate Subject

Saanich municipal solicitor has advised the council to proceed with "great care" if taking action against a Cadillac Avenue resident whose house has been unfinished for a number of years.

Subject of a recent complaint to the council, who said the house could be declared a public nuisance under certain public health by-laws.

Reeve Joseph W. Casey suggested that present members who will be on the 1952 council inspect the property, and be prepared to recommend setting a time limit on completion of the building.

PHONE BUILDING

An application from the B.C. Telephone Co. to erect an automatic central office building on Feltham Road at Tyndall was referred to the zoning board, with a council recommendation that it be granted.

The engineer will be asked the cost of completing Bedford Road, as requested by Phyllis Street residents to give them access to their properties.

"It would cost about $150,000 because of the rock there," Councilor L. H. Passmore said with a perfectly straight face. "I have told them they could do it under local improvement."

A bid of $9.75 from A. E. Ames & Co. Ltd. for $6,000 of B.C. bonds was accepted.

Council passed a motion by Councilor W. C. Kersey that the public works department investigate a ditch on Doncaster Drive, complained of by Mrs. May Dale, 2579 Empire Street.

"No funds available" was the response to a request from a Munns Road resident asking for repairs to the road to improve access to his home. He is not a resident of the municipality.

Council acknowledged a cheque of $638 from Northern Junk Co. for scrap metal bought from the municipality.

An application refused by council was that of S. V. Osborne, 3901 Braefoot, to erect a fuel shed contrary to regulations. Application of Robert E. Waring to operate a kennel at 4240 Quadra was referred to the town planning commission.

Former Beer Baron Dies At Chicago

CHICAGO, Dec. 21 (AP).—Sam Genna, 56, beer baron who survived the murder-a-day gang wars of the prohibition era, died Thursday in bed. Death was caused by a heart ailment believed induced by over-exertion from shovelling snow from his back porch. Sam and his brothers, Angelo, Mike, Tony, Jim and Pete, headed the west side Genna gang that lorded over alky cookers in the Little Italy district during the roaring 20's.

Rotary Gives $1,824 Cash Benevolence

Cheques of $912 were presented to the Solarium and Salvation Army Thursday by the Victoria Rotary Club.

The money represents proceeds from the club's vaudeville show presented here last month.

Logan Mayhew, president of the Solarium board, accepted one cheque and Maj. C. J. Milley, of the Salvation Army, was given the second.

Club president George I. Warren told Rotarians, their wives and guests at the weekly luncheon that the money was "well expended."

Two new club members were introduced—S. F. Ford and M. D. Turyk. Birthday greetings went out to members Harold Elworthy, Ray Cranston and Bunny Hearn.

It was announced that the Dec. 27 weekly meeting will be a father, sons and daughters luncheon.

Fewer Jobs Open For Immigrants

OTTAWA, Dec. 21 (CP).—Labor Minister Gregg said Thursday slackening of employment because of seasonal conditions has cut down the number of jobs open to immigrants.

This had slowed the movement of these new Canadians through the labor department's hostels at Ajax, Ont., and St. Paul, Que.

Despite crowded conditions every effort was being made to see the immigrants were comfortable and the food being served was the best possible. In four years of operations there had not been any complaints.

MALHAM TARN, Eng. (CP).—Archaeologists in this Yorkshire district unearthed a 1,900-year-old musical instrument, a pipe made of bone, which when cleaned was found to produce clear notes.

U.S. Apologizes For Vandalism Directed Against Red Embassy

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21 (UP).—The State Department has expressed its "regrets" to the Russian Embassy over incidents of vandalism now under investigation by District of Columbia Police.

The incidents at the Soviet headquarters and recent vandalism at the Romanian legation have prompted renewed State Department efforts to get 24-hour guards posted at most embassies and legations here.

The department's apology, it was learned, was made to a Soviet Embassy official who called at the department Thursday to protest that the fancy seal near the embassy's main door on fashionable 16th Street had been stolen Wednesday night.

The protest followed delivery of a Soviet note Monday which called on the United States to

'Manslaughter' Jury's Finding

Young Driver Involved In Fatal Collision Remembers Nothing Of Crash Or Ride

A driver who said he "remembered nothing" about the fatal accident he was involved in the afternoon of Dec. 7, heard a coroner's jury bring in a verdict of manslaughter against him today.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES

A special choir comprising 38 new Canadians recently out from China who attend classes at North Ward School, will be heard singing Christmas carols over the P.T.A. radio program on C.V.I. Saturday night at 8.15. The carols were recorded.

Alfred John Smy and his wife, 527 Constance Avenue, in County Court today, sought the recovery of $676 in a civil suit against Wesley Foreman, real estate agent. The suit involves the sale of property to the plaintiffs.

The Smys claim that Foreman acting as agent for Norbut, Evans and Thelma Evans sold them their present Constance Avenue residence for the sum of $3,750.

They allege that after they agreed to buy the property they discovered that the sale price as authorized by the vendors was $3,000 and no more.

Foreman denies the allegations. Judge H. H. Shandley is presiding.

This year's highest tides are putting off their appearance until the last minute.

Highest tides of the year for Victoria will come on Dec. 27 and 28. Year's high tide for the Strait of Georgia will be on the last day of the month.

Tides of 11.3 feet are scheduled for Victoria at 11.33 in the morning of Dec. 27 and 12.09 noon on the 28th.

High tide for the Strait of Georgia on Dec. 31 is set for 16.5 feet.

Christmas seal sales in the Greater Victoria area are higher this year than in 1950.

The Victoria Sororist Club's committee in charge of sales reports total sales so far amount to $11,708. Amount raised last year was $13,588.

Mrs. Nancy C. Vaughn, 92, of 2753 Richmond, badly hurt in a fall down the basement stairs of her home, was still reported to be in only "fair" condition at Jubilee Hospital today.

A fine of $35 and a license suspension was imposed today in city police court against motorist Arthur M. Fraboni, Wood Point Barracks, after he pleaded guilty to a charge of careless driving.

Cauliflowers Hard Hit Here By Cold Snap

Automobile and buses were not the only things hit hard by poor weather conditions.

Wholesalers report that they have crop freeze-ups on their hands. Local cauliflower are now scarce and it is feared that Victoria's bad weather may have wiped out a good portion of the crop. As yet the wholesalers have had no favorable report on the growing conditions.

Eggs also are due to go on the short list due to the cold weather. Bananas will probably be in short supply after Christmas. There are plenty on the stands now for the Yuletide shoppers but shipments are expected to be small at the new year.

Lettuce prices are still high, but increased shipments may bring down the price after Christmas.

Fruits and vegetables arriving from below the border this week include California celery, broccoli, navel oranges and Texas tomatoes.

Esquimalt's Vote Nearly 50 Per Cent Tabulation Shows

One of the heaviest votes in years was recorded in the recent Esquimalt municipal election.

Councillors Thursday night read a report from returning officer James Elrick which showed 1,361 votes were cast out of a potential 2,788.

Largest number of rejected ballots were cast for the two police commission candidates—47 had to be destroyed.

On the $280 per capita taxation collected by Ottawa this year, $110 is for defense spending and $170 for other purposes.

Sol Starts His Long Trip North Saturday But Old Man Winter Walks Road To Spring

This is the day generally considered the shortest in the year... Dec. 21. Some people think of it as the end of the year. In a sense, it is that; for the sun is on its long climb across the equator Saturday.

The sun, in fact, has gone as far south as it can get. This is the time of winter solstice.

It is generally safe to predict it will be cold.

Nevertheless, from here on, until summer solstice when the sun starts back towards the south again, the days are getting longer; spring and summer are on the way back, not marching away.

The day draws nearer when the so-called breadwinner will not have to stumble through the dark on treacherous ground to catch a bus he prays is late.

The day draws nearer when the more fortunate will not worry about the battery or the state of the anti-freeze.

The winter solstice, to the minds of many, is the end of the dark period. There is a feeling the world is on the road to sunshine and flowers and light.

Tomorrow the sun rises a few seconds later than it did today; and the next day it rises a few seconds earlier.

But at one minute past eight Saturday morning the sun is on its way back... entering, as they say, Capricornus.

The extraordinary part of it is that this, officially, is the beginning of winter, not the road to spring.

One Of The Big Girls Now

Vote Injunction Move Dropped

Application to withdraw an injunction restraining proclamation of candidates elected in Central Saanich has been made by E. L. Tait, acting for Hugh J. MacDonald, defeated school board candidate.

It was Tait who applied for the original injunction, granted in Supreme Court. Grounds were that the Dec. 15 election was illegal because the ballot form was not authorized by law.

"Instruction has been given me to abandon the petition," Tait explained. It was felt, he said, that proceedings of this sort might be costly in the long run and burden the municipality.

"Moreover," said Tait, "if the petition had been successful it would have meant the extraordinary expense and trouble of a new election."

Assuming the Supreme Court grants the withdrawal, the following will sit as members, as shown by the Monday recount.

For council, Councillor Harold Andrew and H. Rupert Brown; For police commission, Sgt. Ldr. E. J. McLoughlin and George D. Moody;

For school trustee, Reeve Sydney Pickles and Robert C. Derriberg.

In the recount only one position was in doubt, that of the one-year term on the school board, where Reeve Pickles and MacDonald drew a tie vote.

Casting vote was made in the favor of J. W. Ismay, municipal clerk and returning officer.

MacDonald said today he would advise the incoming council to have the election validated as soon as possible.

CABINET STILL PONDERING BOND REQUEST

The provincial cabinet was still in session at press time this afternoon and no announcement had been made concerning Victoria's request to increase interest rates on unsold bonds.

Municipal Affairs Minister R. C. MacDonald was expected to make an announcement following the meeting.

Victoria is asking cabinet approval to boost interest rates on some bonds to not more than 5 per cent. The city has been unable to get satisfactory bids at rates of 3, 3 1/2, and 3 3/4 per cent. The bonds would be sold under the 1948 Street Loan By-law and the 1950 School Loan By-law.

Inquest To Probe Death Of Youthful Victoria Singer

An inquest will be held Saturday morning at 10 at McCall Brok. Funeral Home to probe circumstances in the death of Mary Starkey, 21, of 1274 Centre.

The attractive singer was found dead in her room due to gas fumes Wednesday morning. Coroner E. C. Hart, following an inquiry, rendered a verdict of accidental death.

Police Say Publicity Killed Hunt No Developments In Store Robbery

No developments were reported by city police today in the man hunt following a $300 hold-up Wednesday night of Fountain Confectionery, Hillside and Douglas.

Investigators blamed premature publicity for lack of results.

They claim a story in the Victoria Times Thursday editions reporting that Fred McBratney, store owner, had identified one of the bandits from picture files has destroyed their chances of catching up with one of the two bandits in the robbery.

The criticism came from both Police Chief John Blackstock and Inspector Charles Webb, chief of detectives.

Air and sea exits from Victoria are being carefully watched for the suspect.

"Investigations are continuing," was the only comment from police officials.

HELP FOR NEEDY

Volunteers' Bounty Fills Yule Hampers

Christmas Day will be a little brighter for several needy families in this area because of the efforts of a group of provincial education department employees.

The workers have "adopted" for the day three families in the provincial territory who are social welfare cases. They will be giving bulging Christmas hampers full of "little extras."

Two other families will receive the same treatment from Young Peoples' Associations at Metropolitan and St. John's Churches.

"The girls deserve a real pat on the back," said a welfare department official. "The hampers have that personal touch which is so important."

The employees have fixed up toys, dressed dolls, bought food and clothing. All have enjoyed the work.

"This is our third year and the project is expanding," said one.

No Blame Fixed In Cell Death

Royal Commissioner's Sanger Case Report Does Not Solve Mystery Of "Certificate"

All parties concerned have been cleared of any blame in the death in October of Daniel Leroy Sanger of Victoria, who died in Oakalla prison while awaiting trial on a charge of murdering a local woman.

Judge H. H. Shandley, who comprised the one-man Royal Commission investigating the death, said in his report released today that "From the day Sanger was arrested until the day he died he was given every care and attention."

Judge Shandley also ruled that it was "proper" to move Sanger from Victoria city jail to Oakalla Prison.

One of the big issues during the inquiry—whether or not city medical health officer Dr. J. L. Gayton issued a medical certificate ruling Sanger was fit to be moved—remains unsolved.

Constable Robert Ross of the R.C.M.P., the judge noted, said he received the certificate at Patricia Bay Airport from Constable George Buckle of the city police. Constable Buckle testified he didn't have a medical certificate to turn over to Constable Ross. Dr. Gayton testified he signed no such certificate and other officers said they had no recollection of seeing one.

CERTIFICATE NEVER FOUND

Judge Shandley said an Oakalla Prison guard testified he received the medical certificate. The prison warden testified it was a strict rule that no prisoner, whether sentenced or committed for trial, be admitted without such a certificate. However, a thorough search of the institution failed to locate it, the judge observed.

Judge Shandley said Chief John Blackstock was "entirely wrong" when he said that a prisoner committed for trial then became the prisoner of the R.C.M.P. He termed this an "extraordinary statement."

The judge noted Chief Blackstock said a medical certificate was never issued when a prisoner was committed for trial.

To prove Chief Blackstock was

25-30 Barrels Daily Yield, B.C. Oil Well

Tests at Pacific Petroleum Ltd., Fort St. John No. 1 well, British Columbia's first oil well, show it is capable of a 25-to-30-barrel-a-day flow, plus a small quantity of gas.

Lands and Forests Minister E. T. Kenney said today he received word of the tests from Frank McMahon, president of Pacific Petroleum.

The tests were carried out at a depth of 5,640 feet.

Operations are being suspended awaiting better weather. After the holiday season a service rig will be moved there in an effort to make the well a commercial producer.

The drilling rig from the discovery well will be moved to the No. 3 location near Beldonnell where drilling will be started early in the new year.

Pacific Petroleum struck oil Nov. 1 and started a wild rush of investors for permits to carry out exploration work in the Peace River. More than 8,000,000 acres is being sought.

Meanwhile, coal and petroleum control officials said first of these permits will be issued in about two weeks.

ISLAND BUSES HEAVY LADEN AS HOLIDAY TRAVEL STARTS

Exceptionally heavy Christmas traffic is reported already by Vancouver Island Coach Lines, and extra buses will be added to nearly all runs over the week-end.

Today the last of 1,200 loggers from up-island points reached Nanaimo and Victoria for the holidays. There will be two sections on The Islander out of Victoria Saturday, and the 5.45 evening schedule tonight and Saturday will run in three sections.

The Santa Claus special, out of Victoria at 4 Monday afternoon, will likely be booked to capacity, and Sanich inter-rurban lines are experiencing the heaviest Christmas traffic on record, officials report.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Here Is A Gift That Is Thrifty Yet Attractive

By PENNY SAVER

Aprons, as Christmas gifts, are so popular with women they are almost traditional by now. The ones that are made for the wearer, are best, because they combine the personal touch with practicality.

When they're made from cotton feed bags, according to patterns, gift aprons have another asset—they're thrifty.

Thrifty doesn't necessarily mean that the article has to be dull. You can vary the patterns with the needs or likes of your friends and make everyone happy.

For a friend who likes to entertain, a party-time apron will be a welcome gift. A 100-pound feed bag dyed in a soft color is good for one choice. It's easy to do and attractive when you've finished. A white organdy sash with big pockets give contrast and trim.

Another half-apron for a hostess uses a 100-pound bag of one color and part of another in a contrasting color.

For instance, say you chose traditional Christmas red and green. You could use the red in inverted triangles and for the waistband. The green would be the basic apron.

Something that you may not think of until you look at attractive materials is a plaid apron. Any pattern you choose would be doubly attractive—and original—if made in plaid. A patch pocket of one of the predominate solid colors would add a snappy note. And while you are at it why not repeat that color in binding completely around the apron.

The overall is a handy apron and one that many women pick as the backbone of an apron wardrobe. A woman wants something protective while preparing meals in the kitchen and attending to the every-day duties of the home.

As practical as this type of apron may be you certainly don't want it to look too much.

Since it is much larger than the little party apron you won't want too large a design to overpower a color. Choose something flattering then dress it up with odd-shaped pockets or applique cut-out fruit or flowers on it.

With pennies getting short and Christmas sneaking closer, you may find that this will complete your gift list.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Pluck Only Stray Hairs To Keep Brows In Line

Q. "How does one tweeze the brows? I never seem to make a success of it. When I use the tweezers, after I finish, the line of the brows is very irregular and looks as though they have small holes in them. Why is this and how can I avoid it?"

A. Many women have this trouble. An expert does not. The safeguard is to take out only those hairs which are actually strays. Apply a bit of cream to the brows. Take a small eyebrow brush and brush the brows upward and then level the top lines with the brush. Remove only the hairs which stick out from the main line.

What you have been doing is to pull hairs that are out of place but extend down into the brow-line at their roots. For the ones which are too long you can train them with patience, or you can snip off the ends and leave the rest of the hair.

Q. "Can you tell me my correct weight? I am 19 years old; 5 feet 8 inches tall and weigh 137 pounds. I don't seem to be either very small or very large, but my figure some way is not right. My bust measures 36 inches; waist, 25 inches, and hips, 39 inches."

A. The 137 pounds is not too much for you but your hips are too large. That is what you notice. You can reduce these by taking hip-reducing exercises regularly. Lose two inches anyway.

Q. "My problem is a sagging abdomen. I have been pinching and squeezing while relaxing in my bath to reduce the sag. Is this helpful?"

A. This may help a little but it is not the way to attack your problem. Protruding and sagging abdomens are the result of overweight and lax abdominal muscles. You must strengthen the abdominal muscles and stretch the fat through exercise. You will also have to diet, since you have too many pounds. You must be careful that you are pinching and digging only in surface fat and not bruising underlying organs.

Q. "Can one eat too many fruits and vegetables?"

A. There are certain intestinal troubles which make the consumption of raw foods or those with too much roughage inadvisable. Follow your doctor's advice in this case. Otherwise few people eat too many, especially if they chew them well. Be careful, however, that you do not consume so much of these that you neglect other essential foods. This is the main danger.

At Christmas Party Festive Decorations

Arrangements of jasmine, holly and Christmas decorations created the festive motif at the Christmas party of Ladies' Auxiliary, Branch No. 7, Canadian Legion, B.E.S.I.

The head table was centered with a large decorated cake. Executive members of the ladies' auxiliary, Mrs. A. Hall, honorary president; and Mrs. E. Swan, immediate past president of Provincial Command Ladies' Auxiliary, presided.

Mesdames G. E. Davies and E. J. Heller accompanied carol singing on the piano and each member received a gift.

Conveners were Mesdames G. W. Wallis and M. Kendrew, assisted by Mesdames F. M. Williamson, G. E. Davis, E. M. McCabe, L. Holyoke and K. Espley.

Special Service At First United

Mrs. Irene Nash sang three Christmas carols at a candlelight service arranged by Ann Wilson Group at a recent meeting of Women's Missionary Society of First United Church. Mrs. H. J. Cromie presided.

During the meeting a letter from Mrs. O. Butters was read giving an account of some of her experiences in Great Britain.

Honor President

Mrs. Colin Mouat was guest of honor recently when the executive of Ladies' Auxiliary to Canadian Legion, Ganges, held a Christmas tea at the home of Mrs. J. B. Acland. Mrs. Cecil Springford presented the president with two sandwich plates and Mrs. Acland gave her a corsage of violets.

Mrs. A. Francis presided at a table decorated with winter jasmine and green candles in silver holders.

A fruit cake will cut easier if it is thoroughly chilled. Chill several hours and then slice with a sharp knife.

Women Now Invade The Scallop Dragging Field

CHILMARK, Marthas Vineyard, Mass. (AP)—Young wives in hip boots and oilskins have upset the 300-year-old masculine monopoly on scallop-dragging in this tiny island village.

The women make nearly $20 a day helping catch the greatest run of scallops in the community's history.

More than $1,500 a day is being split among fewer than 80 persons holding "citizen's permits" to catch the succulent island sea food.

A feminine rebellion against the local "male only" restriction on scallop permits led to a special town meeting. The women mustered 34 votes to 30 to ask the selectmen to let down the bars.

Until nearby Gay Head permitted women to go scalloping in 1949, the villagers never made any specific rules against women. It was just unthinkable.

able to them that the so-called "gentler sex" would forsake their traditional place in the home.

The issue arose this year because several young wives with husbands in the service or working at jobs on the mainland saw no reason why they shouldn't share in the rich harvest.

Led by Mrs. Donald Smith, the wives tossed the United States constitution and a Supreme Court decision at the selectmen to support their stand against discrimination based on sex.

A hastily-called town meeting voted in favor of the women after less than an hour of debate.

By throwing open the scallop fishery to women the town almost doubled its catch because the law, by local option, is set at four bushels per day for each legal resident. Now families with husky sons take their wives along for a flat ride to enable them to qualify for the four extra bushels.

Selectman Flanders, a commission buyer for scallop dealer George Eldredge of Mattapoisett, Mass., purchases "shelled out" scallops for prices from $6.50 to $8 a gallon depending upon the fluctuating market. The four-bushel-per-person limit takes about four hours to open and makes three gallons of prime scallops.

A few salted almonds make a popular extra to include in a school lunch box. They are a delicious accent with sandwiches or fruit. What's more they're rich in vitamins and minerals and other nutritious qualities which are necessary for a well-balanced lunch.

Singers Take Part In Y.W.C.A. Festivities

Fun and laughter has been the order of the day at the Y.W.C.A. throughout this week as various Christmas, dinners, parties and programs have taken place.

The Christmas "at home" was held Wednesday evening with a pageant, "Spirit of Christmas," a highlight on the evening's program. Master of ceremonies was Mrs. Martha Elliott, president of the Program Council, and the pageant depicted events past and present.

There was lively community carol singing interspersed with poems, readings and songs; Dr. Olga Jardine, World Y.W.C.A. member, related experiences of her recent visit to Bethlehem. Another highlight was the play, "A Christmas Star for Olga," produced by Miss Margaret McCulloch with members of the Junior Y-Teens Club in the cast. Following the program mince tarts and coffee were served. Last Monday evening the residence staff party was held, also a party in the downstairs clubroom for the Sixty-Up Club. On Tuesday a luncheon was given for more than 150 elderly women of Victoria.

On Saturday evening there will be a sub-deb dance at the "Y" and also an Overseas Wives' Club dance.

The Christmas activities commenced last week when in a traditional "hanging of the greens" ceremony various "Y" clubs decorated lounges and rooms in the holiday motif.

Double Deckers Increase Your Saving

Shake the piggy bank hard—no luck? Then treat your family to a real budget meal, corned beef double deckers... and truly they are a treat!

Corned beef double deckers are sandwiches that bake all-in-one, filling and biscuit, as part of their preparation. Roll out a rich biscuit dough, top it with a savory corned beef and catsup mixture, cap with another layer of the biscuit dough and tuck into the oven. When the double deckers come out a little later, the filling is piping hot, your sandwiches are ready to serve.

The flavor and texture of the biscuit dough used for the double deckers deserve special mention. The dough contains corn meal to give it a crisp, just-a-bit-crunchy texture that is perfect foil for the corned beef. Extra rich and tender, it borders on a pastry.

Economical indeed, these corned beef double deckers at a few pennies are a hearty main dish for dinner or supper. Serve them with your favorite tomato sauce—and watch the piggy bank fund grow!

THE RECIPE
Biscuit Dough: 3/4 cup enriched corn meal, 2 cups sifted enriched flour, 2 teaspoons

TODAY'S RECIPE

LEMON GINGERALE ICE
To Serve With Chicken
Two cups gingerale, 1 package lemon sherbet mix.

Measure gingerale into a bowl. Add contents of package of lemon sherbet mix. Beat with rotary beater until dissolved—about two minutes. Pour mixture into refrigerator tray and place in freezing compartment. When mixture is firmly frozen remove from tray to bowl. Break up into small lumps with fork or potato masher. Beat with electric or hand beater until free from lumps but still a thick mush. Return to refrigerator tray and place in freezing compartment until fairly firm.

baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 cup shortening, 1 cup milk.

Filling: 1 12-ounce can corned beef, 1/2 cup catsup.

Sift together dry ingredients. Cut in shortening until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Add milk and stir lightly until dough leaves side of bowl. (Add a little more milk if needed to make a soft dough.) Knead gently several times. Divide dough in half. Roll each half to form a 9-inch square.

Break corned beef into small pieces with a fork. Add catsup and combine well. Spread corned beef mixtures over one square of dough. Top with second square of dough. Cut in serving portions. Bake on a baking sheet in hot oven (425 degrees F.) for 12 to 15 minutes. Serve with your favorite tomato sauce. Makes six servings.

Treat your family to a coffee cake of a Sunday morning. Combine 2 cups biscuit mix with 1-3 cup sugar, 1 lightly beaten egg and half cup milk. Pour into a greased 8-inch pan and top with halved, pitted cooked prunes and a mixture of 1-3 cup brown sugar, 3 tablespoons biscuit mix and 1/4 teaspoon spice. Bake 35 minutes in a moderately hot oven.

Clothing Exchange Wartime Hangover

LONDON (CP)—Thousands of mothers in Britain benefit from a service set up in wartime and continued through popular demand.

Clothing exchanges for growing children are operated through the country, and parents can exchange junior's outgrown outfits for other second-hand garments in good condition.

"More than 300 exchanges are now operating," said an official of the voluntary women's organization that instituted this service. "And the autumn demand is heavier than ever."

Twelve mobile exchanges now operate in rural areas, one unit linking 19 villages.

High living costs are reflected in the eagerness of mothers to take advantage of this service, said the official. "Boys' clothing of all types, particularly underwear, is always in demand."

Quarter Century Member Receives Life Certificate

Mrs. W. Carpenter, for 25 years an active member of Lake Hill Women's Institute, was presented with a life-membership in the British Columbia organization at a recent Christmas luncheon of Lake Hill Institute. The certificate and pin were presented by the retiring president, Mrs. W. S. Webster.

* Other presentations on behalf of the members were a cup and saucer to Mrs. Webster, made by Mrs. W. T. McGregor; and an evening purse to Mrs. E. Glover in recognition of her work as convener of hall rentals.

Twenty-three guests attended the luncheon. The table was decorated in festive motif by Mesdames Eric Hagen and Glover. Featured among the greenery and silver was a Danish centerpiece, complete with lighted church, and a snowy landscape dotted with reindeer. Following the refreshments, Miss Dorothy Cox read "Night Before Christmas."

Mrs. M. Cowan was luncheon convener and Mrs. R. W. Mercer, Santa Claus.

Provincial W.I. superintendent, Mrs. Stella Gummow, was a special guest.

Another salad is one of creamy cottage cheese and a canned peach half. Drain the peach well, and place in a container with the cheese. Use paper cups for this, too.
